Pensions Board Wins Accounts Award

23 November 2001

The Pensions Board has won the Leinster Society of Chartered Accountants Published Accounts Award. The Board took the Not-for-Profit Award at a ceremony today.

This is the third year in a row that The Pensions Board has won this award for its Annual Report & Accounts.

Ms Anne Maher, Chief Executive, said The Pensions Board considered it imperative that its Annual Report & Accounts was easy to understand and was visually attractive to ensure maximum accessibility by all its stakeholders.

“As a State agency, we need to ensure that our annual report is easily understood by all interested parties, not just one specific audience. We are very honoured to win this award for the third year in a row. This recognition is a fitting tribute to the many people that work with limited resources to produce an award-winning annual report and accounts.”

In the 1999 and 2000 Chartered Accountants Published Accounts Awards, the Pensions Board won the Not-for-Profit category.

The Pensions Board is the statutory body set up to regulate occupational pension schemes and to advise the Minister for Social, Community & Family Affairs, and through him Government, on overall pension policy and development.
